When you know that the average size of a town house in the UK and Europe is 105m², you can begin to imagine the size and potential of this imposing building. 442m², spread over 6 floors (plus a basement garage), ready to be brought back to life. The main building, which fronts onto the main town square is entered via a traditional Andalusian vestibule and through double doors into the living area. With the original chequered flooring throughout, we have a small office/study and then a massive open plan, living area, with fire place and an adjacent fitted kitchen, with access to the first terrace, also accessible from the living area....(Ask for More Details!)
